Don't miss any of Sarah Caudwell's riveting Hilary Tamar mysteries. THUS WAS ADONIS MURDERED THE SHORTEST WAY TO HADES THE SIRENS SANG OF MURDER THE SIBYL IN HER GRAVE The Shortest Way to Hades Sarah Caudwell, 2012-10-18 Everyone in the family had decided that changing the trust arrangement seemed the perfect way to avoid three million in taxes. However, when dreary cousin Deirdre has a mysterious accident after demanding a fee for her signature, the young London barristers handling the trust seek advice from mentor Hilary Tamar. Julia believes it's murder, whilst Hilary wonders why the raven-haired heir did not die. But with more deadly accidents occurring, it is Hilary who is given the perilous quest of unmasking the killer. The Shortest Way to Hades Sarah Caudwell, 1984 Kriminalroman Fatal Fictions Alison L. LaCroix, Richard H. McAdams, Martha Craven Nussbaum, 2017 Writers of fiction have always confronted topics of crime and punishment. This age-old fascination with crime on the part of both authors and readers is not surprising, given that criminal justice touches on so many political and psychological themes essential to literature and comes equipped with a trial process that contains its own dramatic structure. This volume explores this profound and enduring literary engagement with crime investigation and criminal justice. The collected essays explore three themes that connect the world of law with that of fiction. First, defining and punishing crime is one of the fundamental purposes of government, along with the protection of victims by the prevention of crime. And yet, criminal punishment remains one of the most abused and terrifying forms of political power. Second, crime is intensely psychological and therefore an important subject by which a writer can develop and explore character. A third connection between criminal justice and fiction involves the inherently dramatic nature of the legal system itself, particularly the trial. Moreover, the ongoing public conversation about crime and punishment suggests that the time is ripe for collaboration between law and literature in this troubled domain. The essays in this collection span a wide array of genres, including tragic drama, science fiction, lyric poetry, autobiography, and mystery novels. The works discussed include works as old as fifth-century BCE Greek tragedy and as recent as contemporary novels, memoirs, and mystery novels. The cumulative result is arresting: there are killer wives and crimes against trees, a government bureaucrat who sends political adversaries to their death for treason before falling to the same fate himself, a convicted murderer who doesn't die when hanged, a psychopathological collector whose quite sane kidnapping victim nevertheless also collects. Justice Thomas, reading and misreading of Bigger, Thomas, a man who forgives his son's murderer and one who cannot forgive his wife's non-existent adultery, fictional detectives who draw on historical analysis to solve murders. These essays begin a conversation, and they illustrate the great depth and power of crime in literature. Burial Plots in British Detective Fiction Lisa Hopkins, 2021-01-24 Burial Plots in British Detective Fiction offers an overview of the ways in which the past is brought back to the surface and influences the present in British detective fiction written between 1920 and 2020. Exploring a range of authors, including Agatha Christie, Patricia Wentworth, Val McDermid, Sarah Caudwell, Georgette Heyer, Dorothy Dunnett,

Jonathan Stroud and Ben Aaronovitch Lisa Hopkins argues that both the literal and literary disinterment of the past use elements of the national past to interrogate the present As such in the texts discussed uncovering the truth about an individual crime is also typically an uncovering of a more general connection between the present and the past Whether detective novels explore murders on archaeological digs hauntings cold crimes or killings at Christmas Hopkins explores the underlying message that you cannot understand the present unless you understand the past

Women Times Three Kathleen Gregory Klein,1995 This volume explores the range of relationships among women writers women detectives and women centered mystery fiction and women readers Focusing on writers as diverse as Sara Paretsky Joan Hess Sarah Caudwell P D James Katherine V Forrest Mary Roberts Rinehart Sue Grafton D R Meredith Dorothy L Sayers and Barbara Wilson the authors analyze the development of detective fiction with a different agenda the woman authored woman detective Examined through the eyes of actual and hypothetical women readers of the genre these eleven essays concentrate new attention on the trio of reader writer and text when all three are modified by the terms woman and mystery The first essay collection to propose this gender and genre specific analysis Women Times Three offers its readers a careful theoretical and critical investigation of both historical and contemporary models of consistently new mystery fiction The essays authors are not only widely published scholar critics of mystery detective fiction but also dedicated fans of the genre Familiar with the full scope of mystery fiction they bring insight and enthusiasm to their writing
