The Geography of Defence Michael Bateman, Raymond Riley, 2015-12-22 Defence against military attack has had a considerable geographical impact Urban morphology frequently owes more to the defence function than to any other whilst local regional and national economies are often intricately dependent on defence expenditure It is also clear that the social geography of cities both recently and in the past has been affected by the presence of the military Despite its importance defence as a major government function has not been the focus of geographical analysis in the same way as housing transport health or education This volume redresses this imbalance by demonstrating the geographical importance of defence in these vital areas A Geography of Imperial Defence Vaughan Cornish, 1922 Military geography for professionals and the public, 1998 Military geography one of several subsets within those broad confines concentrates on the influence of physical and cultural environments over political military policies plans programs and combat support operations of all types in global regional and local contexts Key factors displayed in table 1 directly sometimes decisively affect the full range of military activities strategies tactics and doctrines command control and organizational structures the optimum mix of land sea air and space forces intelligence collection targeting research and development the procurement and allocation of weapons equipment and clothing plus supply maintenance construction medical support education and training Military Geography for Professionals and the Public John M. Krasnov, 2010-07 This edited volume demonstrates how the latest developments in biogeography for example in phylogenetics macroecology and geographic information systems can be applied to studies in the evolutionary ecology of host parasite interactions in order to integrate spatial patterns with ecological theory Geographical Teacher, 1910 Includes section Reviews and other bibliographical material War and the City Gregory J.
