These men were not only contemporary with Hebbel and Ludwig but may indeed be called their artistic counterparts. Though widely differentiated by individual temperament and talent, these painters and poets belong to the same phase of mid century German literature and art, the striving of Romanticism beyond itself, the struggle for a new style uniting depth of feeling and terseness of delineation, the longing for a new view of life, harmonizing the worship of the past with the demands of modern society and the problems of the day. Hence the heroic note in the work of these painters and poets, hence their predilection for great historical or mythological or religious subjects, hence their leaning toward tragic conflicts in every day situations, hence their all too conscious striving for pointed effects, hence also the inspiration in art emanating from their best productions.
