Encyclopedia of Twentieth Century Architecture R. Stephen Sennott,2004 For more information including the introduction a full list of entries and contributors a generous selection of sample pages and more visit the Encyclope dia of 20th Century Architecture website Focusing on architecture from all regions of the world this three volume set profiles the twentieth century s vast chronicle of architectural achievements both within and well beyond the theoretical confines of modernism Unlike existing works this encyclopedia examines the complexities of rapidly changing global conditions that have dispersed modern architectural types movements styles and building practices across traditional geographic and cultural boundaries History of Architectural Theory Hanno-Walter Kruft,1994 As the first comprehensive encyclopedic survey of Western architectural theory from Vitruvius to the present this book is an essential resource for architects students teachers historians and theorists Using only original sources Kruft has undertaken the monumental task of researching organizing and analyzing the significant statements put forth by architectural theorists over the last two thousand years The result is a text that is authoritative and complete easy to read without being reductive Tony Garnier: the Cité Industrielle Dora Wiebenson,1969 One of the more important but enigmatic figures of the modern planning movement is Tony Garnier 1869 1948 Little is known about his life or about the influences on him which led to his creation of the project on which his fame now rests the Cit Industrielle Only in a recent work by Christophe Pawlowski Tony Garnier et les d buts de l urbanisme fonctionelle en France Paris 1967 do the known pertinent facts about Garnier seem to be discussed in any detail Because this work as indeed most literature on Garnier stresses the contribution of the Cit to later twentieth century city planning it is the purpose of our book to discuss Garnier s work as a product of its particular environment and to investigate its place as a bridge both between nineteenth and twentieth century planning theory and between academic and nonacademic architectural theories and techniques Sections of the followings discussion are based on my article Utopian Aspects of Tony Garnier s Cit Industrielle which appeared in the March 1960 issue of the Journal of the Society of Architectural Historians I am indebted to M Louis Weckerlin architecte en chef of Lyons who many years ago generously shared with me his wealth of knowledge about Garnier s work and attitudes I would also like to thank George R Collins of Columbia University who from time to time has encouraged me in my interest in Tony Garnier Urban Society In Roman Italy Tim J. Cornell,Kathryn Lomas,2005-07-19 This collection of original essays focuses upon Roman Italy where with over 400 cities urbanization was at the very centre of Italian civilization Informed by an awareness of the social and anthropological issues of recent research these contributions explore not only questions of urban origins interaction with the countryside and economic function but also the social use of space within the city and the nature of the development process These studies are aimed not only at ancient historians and classical archaeologists but are directed towards those working in the related fields of urban studies in the Mediterranean world and elsewhere and upon the general theory of towns and complex societies The Routledge Companion to Twentieth and Early Twenty-First Century Urban Design Jon Lang, 2020-11-09 The Routledge Companion to Twentieth and Early Twenty First Century Urban Design is a fully illustrated descriptive and explanatory history of the development of urban design ideas and paradigms of the past 150 years The ideas and projects hypothetical and built range in scale from the city to the urban block level The focus is on where the generic ideas originated the projects that were designed following their precepts the functions they address and or afford and what we can learn from them The morphology of a city its built environment evolves unselfconsciously as private and governmental investors self consciously erect buildings and infrastructure in a pragmatic piecemeal manner to meet their own ends Philosophers novelists architects and social scientists have produced myriad ideas about the nature of the built environment that they consider to be superior to those forms resulting from a laissez faire attitude to urban development Rationalist theorists dream of ideal futures based on assumptions about what is good empiricists draw inspirations from what they perceive to be working well in existing situations Both groups have presented their advocacies in manifestoes and often in the form of generic solutions or illustrative designs This book traces the history of these ideas and will become a standard reference for scholars and students interested in the history of urban spaces including architects planners urban historians urban geographers and urban morphologists French Modern Paul Rabinow, 2014-06-01 In this study of space and power and knowledge in France from the 1830s through the 1930s Rabinow uses the tools of anthropology philosophy and cultural criticism to examine how social environment was perceived and described Ranging from epidemiology to the layout of colonial cities he shows how modernity was revealed in urban planning architecture health and welfare administration and social legislation
