Tokelau Judith Huntsman, Antony Hooper, 1996 Tokelau A Historical Ethnography is the outcome of more than two decades of intensive and wide ranging research in and about the three tiny Polynesian atolls known as Tokelau The book is both a comparative ethnographic study of the islands of Tokelau and a narrative record of their past The ethnographic study is set in the years around 1970 and local narratives and records complement foreign documents to tell the separate and combined stories of the atolls traditional contact and colonial pasts Throughout the differences and interrelationships between the three places are highlighted Tokelau Antony Hooper, Judith Huntsman, 1996-01-03 Tokelau A Historical Ethnography is the outcome of over two decades of intensive and wide ranging research in and about the three tiny Polynesian atolls of Tokelau It is both a comparative ethnographic study of the islands and a narrative record of their past The ethnographic study is set in the years around 1970 The combined stories of the atolls traditional contact and colonial pasts are told through the foreign documents which complement local narratives and records Throughout the differences and interrelationships between the three atolls are highlighted This is a comprehensive work in which history informs ethnography and ethnography history

Prehistoric Marine Resource Use in the Indo-Pacific Regions David Addison, Rintaro Ono, Alex Morrison, 2013-12-20 Although historic sources provide information on recent centuries archaeology can contribute longer term understandings of pre industrial marine exploitation in the Indo Pacific region providing valuable baseline data for evaluating contemporary ecological trends This volume contains eleven papers which constitute a diverse but coherent collection on past and present marine resource use in the Indo Pacific region within a human ecological perspective The geographical focus extends from Eastern Asia mainly Japan and Insular Southeast Asia especially the Philippines to the tropical Pacific Micronesia Melanesia and Polynesia and outlying sites in coastal Tanzania Indian Ocean and coastal California North Pacific The volume is divided thematically and temporally into four parts Part 1 Prehistoric and historic marine resource use in the Indo Pacific Region Part 2 Specific marine resource use in the Pacific and Asia Part 3 Marine use and material culture in the Western Pacific and Part 4 Modern marine use and resource management

Photographing Papua Max Quanchi, 2009-03-26 Photographing Papua is a study of photography in the public domain in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries It argues that southeastern New Guinea known as British New Guinea and then as Papua when it became an Australian colony was created as a geographical place through visual representation in illustrated magazines and newspapers lavishly illustrated travelogues and mission hagiography serial encyclopedia lantern slides and postcards Readers knew Papua because many thousands of black and white photographs of Papuans villages and material culture rapidly swamped the reading public once the process of halftone newsprint reproduction became possible In an innovative and breakthrough fashion Photographing Papua switches attention from a few well known prints in museums and archives in some cases repeatedly reproduced but mostly rarely seen outside of scientific and scholarly circles It deals instead with thousands of photographs often used in ways not intended when the photograph was taken but which editors and publishers and subsequent photographers gradually made conform to an iconographic imperative a sort of abbreviated visual gallery of natives and a quick access pathway to the actual and imagined lives of Papuans in the last Unknown as New Guinea was titled It is a study of representation colonialism cross cultural encounters and the early world of illustrated media and photo journalism

Beyond the Horizon Clifford Sather, Timo Kaartinen, 2008-05-16 Society is never just a localized aggregate of people but exists by virtue of its members narrative and conceptual awareness of other times and places In Jukka Siikala s work this idea evolves into a broad ethnographic and theoretical interest in worlds beyond the horizon in the double sense of past and abroad This book is a tribute to Jukka s contributions to anthropology by his colleagues and students and marks his 60th birthday in January 2007 By exploring the near distant inward and outward horizons towards which societies project their reality the authors aim at developing a new productive language for addressing culture as a way of experiencing and engaging the world

The Future of Tokelau Judith Huntsman, Kelihiano Kalolo, 2007 A sequel to Judith Huntsman and Antony Hooper s Tokelau A Historical Ethnography 1997 and follows the history up to the recent referendum in which Tokelauans decisively voted against independence This study is also an illuminating picture of Foreign Affairs and a brilliant critique of the United Nations and the way it conducts its affairs
