Tony Harrison and the Holocaust Antony Rowland,2001-06-01 This book argues that Tony Harrison's poetry is barbaric. It revisits one of the most misquoted passages of twentieth century philosophy Theodor Adorno's apparent dismissal of post Holocaust poetry as impossible or barbaric. His statement is reinterpreted as opening up the possibility that the awkward and embarrassing poetics of writers such as Harrison might be re evaluated as committed responses to the worst horrors of twentieth century history. Most of the existing critical work on Harrison focuses on his representation of class which occludes his interest in other aspects of historiography. The poet's predilection for establishing links between the atrocities perpetrated by the Nazis the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki and the prospect of global annihilation is examined as a commitment to oppose the dangers of linguistic silence. Hence Harrison's work can be read fruitfully within the growing field of Holocaust Studies his texts enter into arguments about the ethics of representing traumatic incidents that still haunt the contemporary. Harrison's status as a non victim author of the events is stressed throughout. His writing of the Holocaust allied bombings and atom bomb is mediated by his reception of the events through newsreels as a child and his adoption and subversion as an adult poet of traditional poetic forms such as the elegy and sonnet. This book also discusses the ways in which Holocaust literature engages with a number of concepts challenged or altered by the historical events such as love mourning memory humanism culture and barbarism articulacy and silence

Internationale Bibliographie der Rezensionen wissenschaftlicher Literatur ,2003 The Revisions of Englishness David Rogers,John McLeod,2004 Diverse and often competing notions of Englishness have been critiqued by a variety of writers and critics who have become concerned about received visions of Englishness in the post war period. An exciting and provocative collection of essays which registers the changes to Englishness since the 1950s this book explores how Englishness has been revised for a variety of aesthetic and political purposes and makes a ground breaking contribution to the contemporary debates in literary and cultural studies

Literature and Fascination Sibylle Baumbach,2015-07-30 Exploring literary fascination as a key concept of aesthetic attraction this book illuminates the ways in which literary texts are designed presented and received. Detailed case studies include texts by William Shakespeare S T Coleridge Mary Shelley Bram Stoker Oscar Wilde Joseph Conrad Don DeLillo and Ian McEwan

Poetry as Testimony Antony Rowland,2014-03-26

This book analyzes Holocaust poetry war poetry working class poetry and 9 11 poetry as forms of testimony Rowland argues that testamentary poetry requires a different approach to traditional ways of dealing with poems due to the pressure of the metatext the original traumatic events the poems demands for the hyper attentiveness of the reader and a paradox of identification that often draws the reader towards identifying with the poet s experience but then reminds them of its sublimity He engages with the work of a diverse range of twentieth century authors and across the literature of several countries even uncovering new archival material The study ends with an analysis of the poetry of 9 11 engaging with the idea that it typifies a new era of testimony where global secondary witnesses react to a proliferation of media images This book ranges across the literature of several countries cultures and historical events in order to stress the large variety of contexts in which poetry has functioned productively as a form of testimony and to note the importance of the availability of translations to the formation of literary canons

Transmediations Niklas Salmose,Lars Elleström,2019-11-22 This collection offers a multi faceted exploration of transmediations the processes of transfer and transformation that occur when communicative acts in one medium are mediated again through another While previous research has explored these processes from a broader perspective Salmose and Elleström argue that a better understanding is needed of the extent to which the outcomes of communicative acts are modified when transferred across multimodal media in order to foster a better understanding of communication more generally Using this imperative as a point of departure the book details a variety of transmediations viewed through four different lenses The first part of the volume looks at narrative transmediations building on existing work done by Marie Laure Ryan on transmedia storytelling The second section focuses on the spatial dynamics involved in media transformation as well as the role of the human body as a perceptive agent and a medium in its own right The third part investigates new radical boundaries and media types in transmediality and hence shows its versatility as a method of analyzing complex and contemporary communicative discourses The fourth and final part explores the challenges involved in transmediating scientific data into the narrative format in the context of environmental issues Taken together these sections highlight a range of case studies of transmediations and in turn the complexity and variety of the process informed by the methodologies of the different disciplines to which they belong This innovative volume will be of particular interest to students and scholars in multimodality communication intermediality semiotics and adaptation studies

'Choosing Tough Words' Angelica Michelis,Anthony Rowland,2003 If the post of Poet Laureate was allocated on the basis of popularity Carol Ann Duffy would have been the first woman to hold this prestigious post Like Philip Larkin in his day Duffy is both a poet respected by many academics and teachers and widely read and enjoyed by children and adult readers of poetry This is the first full length collection of essays on the poetry of Carol Ann Duffy approaching and exploring her work from a variety of literary theoretical perspectives including feminism masculinity national identity and post structuralism This lively anthology situates Duffy s poems in relation to current debates about the state value and social relevance of contemporary British poetry
