Investigating Classroom Interaction ,2009-01-01 This book adds a new perspective to existing research methodology literature on analyzing social interactions in the classroom Not only does this book introduce multiple research methodologies for analyzing classroom interactions but it also demonstrates these methodologies at work in different empirical research studies The authors of this book are all internationally well recognized for their research work on the social life of classrooms and now for the first time they provide concrete accounts of the ways in which the theories and methodologies they have chosen to guide their research work function in action These black boxes or tacit knowledge of conducting different types of analyses on classroom interaction have seldom been opened up in such a concrete way in the existing research literature This book is an edited collection of papers introducing strands of research on classroom interaction whose logic of inquiry illuminate different approaches analyses and interpretations of social interactions and discourses in contemporary classroom settings The methodological approaches discussed draw on studies of language and discourse ethnography as well as on sociological psychological and domain specific analyses In recognizing the complexity and challenges in mapping out the complex research territory focusing on classroom interactions the prime goal of the book is to build a complimentary context for discussion of the ways in which different approaches to classroom interaction are realized and how they produce different analyses because of their purpose conceptual framework and methodological choice

The illumination of diverse approaches to classroom interaction and discourse is believed to demonstrate the potential and challenges each strand of research is likely to bring towards understanding the psychological social and cultural life of the classroom and how these mediate the situated practice of teaching and learning in today's schooling. This book is targeted towards researchers and graduate students working within the field of social sciences education and psychology. It also makes an excellent text for courses in research methodology education and related fields. You'll never run out of creative writing ideas and interesting story starters. This book is a great gift for aspiring writers. Here are a few examples of great prompts in the book:

You blow out your birthday candles and make a wish. Immediately the wish comes true. What did you wish for? What happens?

Your dad is a scientist. One of his top secret projects is to bring the dinosaurs back to life. He's brought a baby dinosaur home from the lab. How do you look after it?

What type of transportation will people have in the future? A strange little door appears in your bedroom. You can squeeze through the door if you try. What do you find on the other side?

Writing prompts include interesting story starters but also "would you rather" questions like:

Would you rather be able to fly or be incredibly strong and persuasive essay topics to improve debating skills?

Collaborative Creativity Dorothy Miell, Karen Littleton, 2004

The contributors to this volume adopt a socio-cultural approach to understanding collaborative creativity across a wide range of domains such as music composition, business school-based creative writing, and art, fashion design, theatre production, and web-based academic collaborations. Central to the socio-cultural approach to creativity is the recognition that it is a fundamentally social process. It thus follows that if we are to understand and characterize human creativity we need to examine the cultural, institutional, and interpersonal contexts that support and sustain such activity. We also need to understand how cultural tools and technologies resource collaborative creativity. The volume offers a distinctive and valuable contribution to this growing field of scholarship by presenting new empirical findings, reviews, and critiques of existing literature together with suggestions for how this field should develop.
